The Australian Institute for Performing Arts (AIPA) is proud to offer passionate singers the opportunity to work with a top US producer either through private lessons or as part of a masterclass.

During the masterclasses singers work as soloists (one – on – one) each day. Each singer will work on a song over the week ready for a performance on Saturday afternoon for family, teachers and friends. When a talented and dedicated singer works with an accomplished and amazing US producer and coach, Vocal Fusion occurs! This program is designed to give students an opportunity to take their vocal performance to a whole new level by exploring their sound and seeing how their training can be used to capitalize their appeal and get an idea of where they stand in the professional market place.
